

Abstract

A therapeutic device having a relatively stiff and/or inflexible outer shell with a substantially ellipsoid shape, a plurality of protuberances extending outwardly from the outer shell, and a central core that is completely or substantially filled with a substance capable of 5 being cooled or heated, such substance also capable of retaining cold or heat for an extended period of time.